Senior Loan Officer Survey

on Business-Lending Practices in Canada — Results of the Second-Quarter 2016 Survey | Vol. 9.2 | 4 July 2016

This Senior Loan Officer Survey (SLOS) focused on changes to business-lending practices in the second quarter of 2016.

- Survey results suggest that overall business-lending conditions continued to tighten during the second quarter of 2016 (Chart 1) for both price and non-price conditions (Chart 2).[1, 2]
- Tightening in lending conditions was mainly for corporate borrowers, but it also affected small business and commercial borrowers in the Prairies. The oil and gas sector was the most affected across all borrower categories.
- Both price and non-price conditions tightened for corporate borrowers. Lenders also tightened non-price conditions for small business and commercial borrowers. There was a slight easing in price conditions for small businesses.
- The overall demand for credit was roughly unchanged, with less demand from corporate borrowers and generally unchanged demand from small business and commercial borrowers.
- Access to capital markets for non-investment-grade corporate borrowers decreased in the second quarter, according to most respondents.

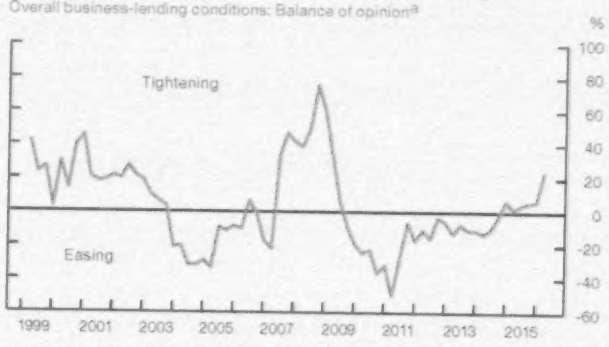
Overall business-lending conditions: Balance of opinion[a]



a. The balance of opinion is calculated as the weighted percentage of surveyed financial institutions reporting tightened credit conditions minus the weighted percentage reporting eased credit conditions. Thus, a positive balance of opinion implies a net tightening. The chart shows the average of the balances of opinion for the price and non-price dimensions of lending conditions.

Chart 2: ...driven by a tightening in both price and non-price conditions

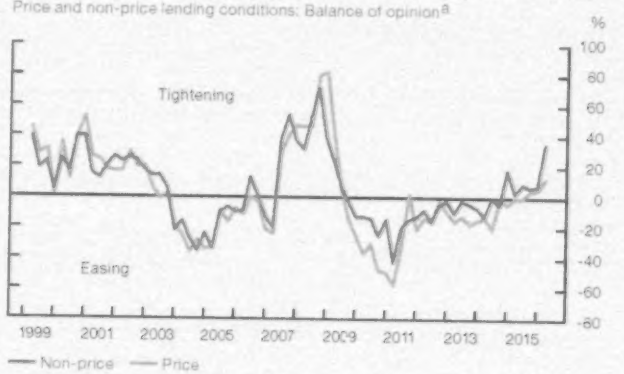
Price and non-price lending conditions: Balance of opinion[a]



a. The balance of opinion is calculated as the weighted percentage of surveyed financial institutions reporting tightened credit conditions minus the weighted percentage reporting eased credit conditions.

Note: Each series is the simple average of the balances of opinion for the small business, commercial and corporate sectors.

1 The SLOS defines the pricing of credit as spreads over base rates rather than as the level of rates.

2 Note that the balance of opinion suggests only the direction of the net change in lending conditions; it does not provide information on the magnitude of the change.

The Senior Loan Officer Survey collects information on the business-lending practices of major Canadian financial institutions. In particular, the survey gathers the perspectives of respondents on price and non-price terms of business lending and on topical issues of interest to the Bank of Canada. The survey is conducted quarterly, near the end of the quarter for which the results are reported. The second-quarter survey was conducted between 6 and 10 June 2016. Additional information on the survey is available on the Bank of Canada's website.

The survey results summarize opinions expressed by the respondents and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Bank of Canada.
